

BIOTURM® Information

Animal experiments

First of all:

Bioturm is against animal experiments and Bioturm products are not tested on animals.

However:

The legal situation is quite confusing for the consumers.

In Germany, cosmetic products have not been tested on animals anymore since 1989 (according to Industrieverband Körperpflege und Waschmittel e.V.).

Nevertheless, the European rules say that every new substance used in cosmetic products MUST be tested on animals in order to protect the consumers.

Alternative testing methods are not accepted by Federal Government up to now. Only if such alternative testing methods will be accepted officially one day, animal experiments can be finally renounced.

Statements like “not tested on animals” are only referred to the product in question itself, but not on the raw materials which are used.